STRESSES NEED PROPER BURIAL GROUND IN CITY

Dr. Douglas Interesting
Speaker to Kiwanis
Today

URGES INTEREST

Inter-City Kiwanis Meeting Here in Near Future—Dr. Cord Was Chairman for Today

Middlesboro's need for a proper burying ground for its dead was the theme of a very interesting address given before the Kiwanis club today by Dr. R. E. Douglas, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Dr. T. H. Cord was chairman of the meeting today.

Dr. Douglas began his talk by saying that death, sooner or later, was inevitable and that preparation for one's last resting place was co-ordinate with pride in community and the people of it. "The history of civilization has always been paralleled by the history of man's care of his dead," he declared.

"Our community has a brief history and no traditions," he continued, "but it has a glorious future." No city in this Commonwealth has opportunity in the excess of Middlesboro, but to keep pace with ourselves we must maintain a real interest in our burying ground, in the last resting place of our loved ones.

"There is progress on every hand in Middlesboro," Dr. Douglas went on, "but unless sentiment permeates all interests, this progress will stagnate. A proper burying ground is the truest expression of sentiment and unless we make provisions for this we can not have lasting progress."

In closing, Dr. Douglas brought out the fact that because of the youth of Middlesboro there were but few real natives here. However, he showed that the residents here now were the builders of the future and that they owe it to themselves, to their children, and their children's children to establish a proper burial place for the dead.

Announcement of the directors' meeting Monday night was made by President C. A. Blackburn who also told of the teachers' party planned for the evening of March 14. A committee to entertain the state golfers if the tournament is here was named, consisting of A. P. Liebig, J. E. Evans and G. F. Schenck.

Dr. C. K. Brosheer, chairman of the inter-city relations committee, announced that an inter-city Kiwanis meeting might be held in Middlesboro if this club desired it. The club voted for the meeting and the time and the program was left up to Boyd Ford and Lieutenant Governor Liebig.

BOYS CONFESS TO JUNCTION ROBBERY

Two Taken on Return From Norton.
Thirl, Leader, Now Is Sought

Henry Fleener and Jeff Tucker, boys about sixteen years of age, have confessed to taking part in a robbery of L. B. White's store at the Junction a few nights ago, according to reports from the police department. The alleged robbers had a hurried departure to Norton after the occurrence but returned yesterday and submitted to arrest. A third boy, said to have been the leader of the youthful band, has not returned to Middlesboro.

In seeking the identity of the culprits, the police department worked on the theory that the disposition of the stolen goods would be made in the vicinity. They learned that the boys had sold some ties to railroad men who were working on a job near by. The third member of the youthful band is expected to return soon.

NORTON PLANS INCINERATOR TO DISPOSE OF GARBAGE

NORTON, Va., Mar. 6.—At the regular meeting of the town council, to be held Thursday night, the body will consider a proposition for installation of a garbage incinerator. A representative of an incinerator firm will be present to discuss the matter before the council.

The incinerator, if installed, will do away entirely with the "filthy" foul odor, unsightly and obnoxious city dump, which has been for so long a cancer-spot on the fair face of the corporation, and will furnish a sanitary and effective means of garbage disposal.

Supporters of the incinerator project insist that such steps would not only mean the elimination of the blot on the landscape, but would result also in an improvement in health conditions, as the dump, is conceded by the health authorities to be a breeding place for flies, mosquitoes and other disease-bearing insects.

BOND BILL PASSED AWAITS SIGNATURES

$75,000,000 Measure for Roads and Institutions Wins After Long Battle

FRANKFORT, Mar. 6.—The administration's $75,000,000 bond issue bill, which was adopted by the senate Tuesday afternoon by a margin of two votes, will be returned to the house for enrollment, after which it will be signed by the speaker of the house and Lieutenant Governor and sent to Gov. William J. Fields for his signature. The governor is certain to sign the measure which will place the bond issue for roads, educational, charitable and penal institutions before the electorate at the November election.

The measure making the governor an member of the highway commission, providing for "force account" work and making other changes also is ready for a vote of 62 to 21 in amendments to it adopted by the Senate. With a constitutional majority of 20 required, the bill passed in the senate by a vote of 22 to 16. Senators voting for the bill were:

Democrats—Atwood, Bell, Dacher, Davis, Duffy, Green, Parnes, Kelly, Lee, Master, Perry, Simmons, Stephenson, Whitener and Young (15).
Republicans—Brook, Clark, Cline, Demunbrun, Fleener, Moss and Taber (7).
Total (22).

Republicans—Garner, Haselden, Mays, Ryan, Truesdell and White (6).
Total (16).

Passage of the measure followed a long and tedious battle, marked with debate and parliamentary skirmishes, during which the supporters of the bond project displayed their anxiety to prevent the measure from going back to the house, where it had passed several weeks ago with only one vote to spare.

COPPER STILL IS USED TO FURNISH COFFEE TO JAIL

Involuntary boarders of the city have the rare privilege of drinking a product of the moonshine still three times each day. The beverage, thus enjoyed by the men during their temporary sojourn at the city's expense is not "mountain dew" but a very fine grade of aromatic Java, steaming coffee that is made in a copper moonshine still. The still which has a capacity of about three gallons was confiscated by officers and brought to the city hall several months ago. Seeing in it a potential coffee pot, it was affixed to it a spout and made of it a vessel that vies with the electric percolator in the quality of its product.

TO HOSPITAL ON EVE MURDER TRIAL

Alex Dawson, to Have Retrial Today, Stricken With Appendicitis

Stricken with appendicitis yesterday evening, Alex Dawson, charged with killing Lige Hoskins, was unable to appear at a second trial, preparations for which were being made. He was tried on the charge during the first part of this week but the jury was unable to reach a verdict. Instead of resetting the case for another term of court as is the usual custom, the court made preparations to try the case the second time this week. One hundred and fifty men several of them from Middlesboro, were summoned for jury service. They were notified last night that the second trial would not take place now on account of the illness of the defendant, which necessitated his removal to the hospital.

ORGANIZE M. H. S. BASEBALL TEAM

Boys Will Start Training Next Week—
No Step Toward Getting League Team

Organization of a Middlesboro High School baseball team will take place next week, J. T. Kilpatrick, athletic director, announces today. The coach has plenty of material and already has plans as to the positions the boys will take on the nine. Practice will begin next week at the East End athletic park. The matter of procuring uniforms for the players has not been considered yet.

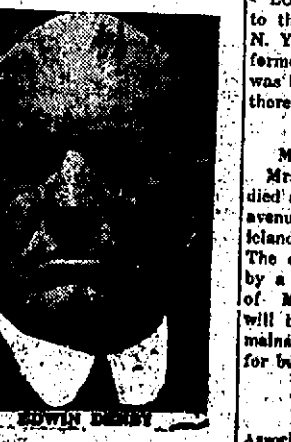

Indications are that the school will have a splendid team this spring. A number of the boys are interested in the sport and Mr. Kilpatrick, an expert baseball manager and player, will doubtless select and train players that will make a record for the school and for the town.

Nothing has been done locally in regard to placing Middlesboro in the Appalachian league. Before any deal of this nature could be consummated it would be necessary that the public give the movement proper support as regards finances.

BAPTIST REVIVAL BEGINS MARCH 31

Series of Services Leading Up to Evangelistic Campaign of In-

Preparations for a great revival campaign are being made by members of the First Baptist church. The series of meetings will begin Monday, March 31 and continue indefinitely. Dr. E. C. Stevens of Louisville will conduct the preaching services and Earl Wolzlagle will be in charge of the music. Services will be conducted during the day and of evenings during the entire campaign. It is expected that the whole city will be reached by the services. The Rev. Sam P. Martin, pastor of the First Baptist church, will deliver a series of sermons leading up to the revival in order that the members may be properly attuned for the religious campaign.

The sermon subjects for the multi-week services preliminary to the revival are: March 12, "Broken Hearts"; March 19, "Broken Homes"; March 26, "Broken Churches."

The subjects for Sunday sermons, all being preparatory to the campaign are: March 9, morning, "The Needed Revival"; evening, "Thou Art the Man"; March 16, morning, "Revival Not Manufactured"; evening, "The Whole Matter Concluded"; March 23, morning, "Who Can be Revived?"; evening, "Jonahites"; March 20, morning, "Revival Echoes"; evening, "Words of the Savior."

Fall Again Discussed—Committee Adjourns Without Question-

nett

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—A telegram from President Coolidge to E. B. McLean in Florida was read into the oil committee record today. The message read: "Prescott is away, advise Slomp with whom I shall confer," and was signed "Calvin Coolidge." Slomp then was in Palm Beach. Committee members said they did not know who Prescott was.

Another message from the President to McLean at Palm Beach on February 12 said: "Thank you for your message. You always have been most considerate." Mrs. Coolidge joins in a sending kindest regards to Mrs. McLean. The first Coolidge telegram was sent after McLean testified that the hundred thousand dollar loan which previously he had said was made to Fall on a note was in reality in the form of checks which were returned to him unchanged.

After reading the first Coolidge telegram statement from the President said the telegram related to the district Columbia commission. Samuel J. Prescott is Republican city chairman and the President desired to confer with him regarding district matters. The second telegram brought this statement from the President: "The telegram from Coolidge on February 12 was in regard to a message from McLean congratulating the President on his Lincoln birthday address in New York."

The committee also put into record today a telegram from Chief Doorkeeper McKenna at the White House advising McKenna on December 22 that Slomp was leaving that night for the south. It consisted of a single sentence and said: "Secretary leaves here tonight at nine forty."

There was also an exchange of telegrams between Albert Fall at Palm Beach and Chairman Linnott of the oil committee in which Fall asked if he would be compelled to testify before Senator Walsh of Montana and the chairman replied he would not. Walsh had been to Florida to question McLean and he made an unsuccessful effort to find Fall while he was at Palm Beach.

After examining other telegrams and questioning more McLean's employees, the committee concluded the hearing for the day without calling Ira Bennett, Washington Post editorial writer, author of the message to McLean mentioning "the principal."

THE $75,000,000 BOND ISSUE

The passage of the $75,000,000 bond issue by the Senate ends the battle in the General Assembly over the measure. Governor Fields is certain to sign the bill as it was his suggestion in the first place. Then it is up to the people of Kentucky.

This bond issue provides $50,000,000 for construction of a good primary road system in Kentucky, to be completed within the next three or four years, connecting even the most remote parts of the state with each other and with the rest of the world. In addition, it provides $25,000,000 for the schools and institutions of the state, large enough sum to put our educational system in the first rank of the states of the union and to take our penal and eleemosynary institutions out of the conditions in common practice, conditions harking to the dark ages.

No part of Kentucky will benefit as much by this bond issue as our own section. It is our lack of roads and schools, the very things that the bond issue would provide, which has kept us in the background and has won for Southeastern Kentucky the unfortunate reputation of lawlessness and ignorance for which it is noted far and wide.

Any one who has observed this section in the short time since the first good roads were put through here and since schools were taken out of politics to a certain degree and developed along praiseworthy lines understands what good roads and good schools mean for our progress. How inestimably more the section would benefit by the improvements planned in this $75,000,000 issue may readily be concluded.

Every true booster of southeastern Kentucky development will not only vote for the bond issue but will boost it wherever he goes. It is only by education and contact with outsiders that we can get out of the rut of hundreds of years so we shall surely seek the means to obtain these things.

PARKING ON EDGEWOOD ROAD

Motorists on Edgewood Road during school hours are not only hampered but actually endangered by the practice of school children and teachers of parking their cars on both sides of the street in front of the Edgewood entrance to the high school.

The street is so narrow, at that point that two cars do well to pass in a clear street. When a car is parked on the street one of two cars meeting each other must stop or slow down. The grade is uphill at this point and the driver going up the grade may kill his engine, quite easily when he stops. Coming down the grade is even more dangerous as the car is picking up speed and it is difficult to come to a complete stop. Every day accidents are narrowly averted though some day one may not be averted and serious results are certain to ensue.

In the first place, parents should instruct children not to park their cars on Edgewood Road as it hinders traffic and endangers their cars. In the second place, if this is not effective the city should take a hand in the matter. We are under the impression that there is a city ordinance existing which provides that cars can not be parked on Edgewood Road for a longer period than fifteen minutes. If there is, the police should take a hand in the matter. If there is not, such ordinance should be enacted and the city commission-

Call of Men to Decision

Read Mt. 10:21-22. Text: Mt. 21:21. Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever would save his life shall lose it and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it.

A man must give himself tightly and move out boldly after Christ. He must take up his life resolutely and put it decisively into Christ's enterprise, to be and to do all that an unfolding sense of duty may reveal. Then all the mysterious facts with which he is linked contribute to the strengthening of his life.

Meditation: From his own experience during the period of his temptation Jesus found that there is but one way to true living, and that is to put the insistent demands of self aside and live with firm determination for the welfare of others, not counting the cost whatever it may be.

Personal Question: What is the Cross? Answer: We seek the face, and in spirit and truth desire to follow thee. We come in penitence that in thy contrite hearts thou mayest find the dwelling place, thou great Creator. Amen.

sinners should lose no time in passing one.

It is bad enough for the owners of cars along Edgewood and Englewood to have to park in front of their houses at lunch time, or for a few minutes other times during the day. But for the street in front of the school house to be continually blocked off is certainly unnecessary and action on the matter should be taken at once.

Dog Taxes
Editor Daily News: There is one revenue that the city officials are neglecting to collect—that is the "dog tax."

While this tax may not be popular, the very fact that it is a law, should make it the duty of officials to give it the same attention as is given other tax measures. The town is over-run with dogs—a few are good; the majority are useless curs that make nights hideous by continual howls and barks, to say nothing about the annoyance of their overturning garbage pails.

Every dog that is not wearing a license tag should be taken to the city pound, until owners learn that they must either pay a tax or do without the canine.

It is hoped that the hog law, which requires hogs to be kept at least 1/2 mile outside the city limits, will be rigidly enforced before summer, by the new commissioners. We are not in need of new laws, but the existing laws should be enforced, in city, state and nation.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Burton
No. 13—LONGTAIL THE MOUSE

Into the drain chased Paddyfoot Purr with the Twins on his back. Paddyfoot Purr was the big cat belonging to the king and queen of Beanstalk Land. He had suddenly spied a mouse when he was giving Nancy and Nick a ride.

"Oh, cried Nancy. 'It's as dark as pitch! Where are we going?' But Paddyfoot was too busy running to answer. On they flew, on and on and on, and all they could hear was the squeaking of the poor mouse just a jump or two ahead.

But suddenly some water came rushing through the drain and Paddyfoot had to swim hard to keep himself from drowning.

"Oh! I hate water," he cried, paddling for dear life. "I wish I never seen that mouse. I shall go back at once. Drains were never made for aristocrats like me. I'll go back and get the herring the cook left for me."

So saying, he turned and was swimming back to dry land and daylight, when another rush of water came swishing by and washed Nancy and Nick off his back.

I don't know what would have happened had they not had the magic green shoes which had helped them climb to Beanstalk Land. But as it was, they swam around and around in the dark, shouting for somebody to save them.

Presently they heard a splashing nearby, and a strange voice asking, "Who are you? And where are you going?"

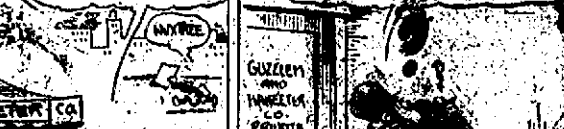

"We're Nancy and Nick, the Twins," cried Nick. "Please save us."

"You are not cats, are you?" came the voice again.

"No, no! We're a girl and boy. Do

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

"The key to the whole oil scandal." So politicians describe the deal by which the Standard Oil Company got certain naval reserve lands in California from which it's reported the company already has taken $30,000,000 worth of oil.

The case hasn't been much touched on yet. Details remain to be brought out, but they're going to be. President Coolidge says he'll name lawyers to get the land back if they can.

McLean's Telegrams
The case investigators' latest discovery is a batch of telegrams which friends and agents sent to E. B. McLean, the newspaper owner, at Palm Beach, keeping him posted on oil developments in Washington.

McLean's name has figured much in the oil cases. Apparently he wanted to know if he'd be called as a witness. The queer thing is that the telegrams were written in a justice department cipher. Also they indicate that William J. Burns, the department's secret service chief, was one of McLean's informants.

Burns, denies this; says, too, the cipher was old—no longer used. And it's asserted that McLean, as a dollar a year man, was a Justice department agent himself.

All the same, the whole thing hints that somebody close to the department was helping those the investigators were investigating.

And a lot of McLean's messages were sent to him over his private wire, by E. W. Smithers, who's also a telegrapher at the White House. However, it's common for one telegraph operator to hold two or more jobs.

"Some Splash"
Angered at senators' demands for his resignation, Attorney General Daugherty says certain senators had better resign, too, or he'll cause "some splash."

Inasmuch as the things Daugherty could tell probably would crowd the present oil investigation right off the newspapers' front pages, there may be startling revelations coming.

Anyway, the Senate has "called" Daugherty, by voting for a full investigation—not only in connection with oil but lots of other things.

Needed the Money
William G. McAdoo admits he got a $150,000 fee for his law firm by appearing in a big tax case, in the very treasury he used to be secretary of, and before officials, some of whom perhaps owed their jobs to him.

Washington, adding up all the big fees he's received since he left the cabinet, recalls that when he resigned he said he was "quitting to make a little money for his family."

According to one capital newspaper, "he spoke a mouthful."

Other Events
A wet "blow" has been formed in the House of Representatives, 50 members combining to demand 275 per cent duties. Though in a minority, a "blow" is strong out of proportion to its numbers, through ability to trade and "deliver the goods" as individuals, scattered, can't do.

Ex-Director Forbes of the Veterans Bureau finally has been indicted in Chicago on charges of waste and graft in hospital building. "It's a hell-bent-sundered conspiracy," says Forbes.

A revolution's on in Honduras and American marines have been landed. The fighting is hot, but won't be on a large scale.

Like Father?

Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thompson, daughter of the late Champ Clark, may follow in her father's footsteps. In New Orleans she is being considered as a congressional candidate for the unexpired term of the late Representative H. Garland Dupre. Her husband, James M. Thompson, is a newspaper publisher.

General Von Ludendorff and Adolph Hitler, who tried to stage a revolution in Bavaria and failed, are on trial for it, but are likely to get off easy, on the ground that they "meant well."

Europe starts a communist revolution in Bulgaria, a Bulgarian war threat against Jugoslavia and Jugoslavian troop movements to meet the Bulgarians. It's mainly rumor but such rumors in the Balkans always are alarming.

Perhaps a Washington doctor, told of 12 ounces of valuable perfume was going to attend an oil scandal.

A Chicago girl who inherited $700,000 is engaged to a plumber who couldn't make that much in a month. Annie (Chol.) bootlegger has been arrested three times in three weeks, but it doesn't seem to be often enough.

Berton Braley's Poem

WILL POWER
"My will," said I, "is very strong;—
Though I've been smoking right along,
When I make up mind to it I'll lay aside my pipe—and QUIT!"

"Well, well," remarked my friend to me,
"I have a nice new crinkly 'A'
Which says you can't quit for a week.
Put up your cash and let it speak."

A long about the second day
I said, "How foolish, anyway,
Was my good friend, how dull of wit,
To go and bet I couldn't quit."

And on the fourth day I observed,
"My resolution hasn't swerved,
I could continue to abstain,
Four days have proved that, very plain."

"That what's the use? I've proved that I'm able to stop at any time.
And since that's true I'm satisfied,
I knew 'twas easy when I tried."

"Why, therefore, should a man connive
To rob his comrade of a fire?
'Twould be, to put it very mild,
Like-taking candy from a child."

"So bring my pipe down from the shelf
I've willy-nilly satisfied myself
That I can quit it easily.
At any time it pleases me."

"And knowing that, without regret,
I light my pipe and pay my bet."

NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—See-sawing seven days and seven nights around town I heard Irving Berlin sing
"What" I Do?" and "Lazy," two songs as yet unpublished but which promise to become very popular.... saw Marion Davies, who always is a center of attraction at an opening night....saw Louis Wolheim, the movie villain, who doesn't look as vicious off the screen as on....saw Elsie Ferguson in "The Moon-Flower," and she apparently is as temperamental as ever. They say she would never allow any one to watch her work in the movies.

Went down to the East Side, where I heard Charles Lawlor, blind composer of "The Sidewalks of New York," sing his world-famous song with his daughter....heard Maude Nugent sing "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," which she wrote years ago....saw Constance Binney in a very poor musical show which has little except the sweetness of Constance herself, to recommend it....saw Peggy and Cortez, dancers in the Ambassador grill, do the tango, and believe them to be among the most graceful dancers in the world....heard Russian folk-songs at a famous Russian resort on 57th street, and think a little optimism injected in the melodies would not harm anyone. These melancholy Russian strains are the inheritance of years of oppression.

It now is said that the author of "Haunch Paunch and Jowl," a vicious story of East Side gangster life, is a young Jew, practically unknown.
It was believe at first that the book was written by a prominent New Yorker who had emerged from the muck and slime of crime and filth and taken his place as a leader in American thought and life; that this was his reason for suppressing his name.

This is supposition, for a reading of the book leaves the impression that its author is well known.
"Haunch Paunch and Jowl" pits the Russian Jews against the German Jews, and reveals the hatred that exists on the part of the former against their more financially-fortunate brothers. It reveals details of crime that exists on the East Side, and is sordid indeed. Most of the opposition to the book is coming from within in ranks of the Jews themselves, but it seems to me that these antagonists of the book misjudge the intellectual level of the country.

They say the book will arouse anti-Semitism, and it undoubtedly will in the unthinking class. But strange to say this feeling of revulsion seems to be stronger on the part of the Jews than non-Jews.

It need not be, for conditions are described in "Haunch Paunch and Jowl" exist among all races that become assimilated on the East Side of New York. It is not confined to any one people. The knowledge that good Americans, good citizens of the world can rise above such conditions, is indeed a satisfying thought. The worst that can be said of the book is that it was untimely.

GARDEN PLANS

Once you have the site for your garden selected, the next thing to do is get ready to plant it.

If the surface ground is so hard it cannot be spaded or plowed, a mattock should be used and the soil broken to a depth of eight or ten inches.

Plenty of manure should be turned under. But do not use sawdust and mill-shavings on garden land.

Nothing is gained by working the land before it is sufficiently dry.

And remember that the longer rest you allow between spading and planting, the better your garden will grow.

Plants do not live by water alone.
They require air, too.

And the only chance air has of reaching the roots is by filtering into the ground after it has been turned and broken.

To see if the soil is ready for planting after you have prepared it, press a small quantity in the palm of the hand.

If it is too wet for working it will adhere in a solid mass. But if dry enough to work it will crumble apart.

Should conditions be favorable following this test rake and hoe the soil to a depth of four to five inches.

Coal ashes have little value as fertilizer. Their function when employed is mainly to loosen the soil and make it workable.

Rotted leaves also make good fertilizer.

But organic matter obtained from burnyans should be employed with care, as it may burn the seeds if placed in direct contact with them.

Best results are obtained with commercial fertilizers, where there is plenty of manure or organic matter in the soil.

Nitrate of soda is frequently used as a side-dressing, especially with crops grown for their leaf value.

The ideal soil is a dark, sandy loam rich in organic retentive matter to hold large quantities of moisture, which carry the crops through periods of drought.

Be sure you have all debris, such as tin cans, rocks and other trash removed from the land before planting.

Expensive tools for the garden are not necessary. A good spade or spading fork, a hoe, a steel rake, a trowel and a watering can are all the implements required for cultivation of the small plot.

If weeds grow rank upon the land,
it is a good indication that the soil is good.

But don't plant anything near maples and oaks. These trees steal the moisture and food from the crops.

176 VETERANS ARE IN LEAVENWORTH, FORMER ENEMY SPY SENDS GIFT TO ONE

UPPER: THE CELL HOUSE AT THE UNITED STATES DISCIPLINARY BARRACKS, LEAVENWORTH, KAS. LOWER LEFT: WARDEN W. L. BIDDLE. LOWER RIGHT: THE MAIN GATE.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Mar. 6.—A box of cigars came in the mail to the United States disciplinary barracks here. It was addressed to Adrian Taylor, chief prisoner clerk, and virtually private secretary to Warden Biddle. Taylor enlisted in the army when the war started and fought on half a dozen sectors of the front, and in the five years since he has been a prisoner there hasn't been one scratch on his record. He has 30 years yet to serve.

The sender of the cigars was Lothar Witzke, the only enemy spy in the United States who was sentenced to death during the war. He was extremely dangerous. The death sentence was commuted to life in the penitentiary, however, and last November he was released.

The alien spy free and, to his credit, remembering a prison acquaintance with a gift! The loyal soldier and obedient prisoner left behind the walls!

Taylor's case probably looks the worst on official records and looks the most worthy of clemency to those personally acquainted with it of almost any in the list.

Serious Charge
The charge is criminal assault upon an aged woman in France. Taylor's story is that he heard a commotion in a house one night. It was a house not of the best reputation and was frequented by soldiers.

Taylor ran in and found two soldiers struggling with the proprietress. He fought with them, they fled and he lifted the old woman from where she had fallen on the floor.

Then the French gentleries came in. Upon their testimony he was found guilty and sentenced by court martial. The victim never identified him.

Perhaps the version indicated by circumstances and accepted by the court is correct. Perhaps Taylor's good conduct before and since the incident is a pose and a fraud. But in a civil court, with innocence presumed until guilt is proved, there is at least a chance that the findings might have been different.

176 Locked Up
Taylor is among 176 of war-time military prisoners here who have been examined at close range by Major James H. Stansfield and Major Frank K. Ross, sent from Washington for the purpose.

Over at the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth there are 184 other military prisoners who face sentences of five years or longer. And there are other all but forgotten war-time soldiers at Atlanta and McNeil Island, Wash., and Fort Jay, N. Y., who are now being considered.

While these remain in prison—patriotic men who got into trouble while in uniform—the highways of the earth are open to the slackers and the I. W. W. and enemy spies who are beneficiaries of sweeping clemency. Not one remains in federal prison.

Saved Warden's Life
There is a life term in the penitentiary here who saved the life of Warden Biddle twice when maniacal convicts sought to strike him from behind.

There is a boy convict of murder who struck a comrade with a knife in the dark, apparently by accident, and the boy already has won a voix de guerre.

Youthfulness is a striking characteristic of many prisoners. Many committed their crimes in the unaccustomed conditions overseas, due largely to the easily obtained wine and cognac.

In some cases the severity of the sentences seems due to the court's desire to make an impression abroad with the sternness of American discipline.

And some of the prisoners are simply hard boiled malefactors.

There seems to be no probability of blanket amnesty for all. But there's a feverish hope that the visit of the two War Department officers will mean some of the soldiers within will join the slackers outside.

TIME HAS COME TO GET READY FOR GARDENING

Warm and sunny days, forerunners of official spring which is little more than two weeks distant, remind prospective gardeners that it is time to make preliminary preparations for garden and truck farming.

A number of garden spots are now being plowed and the soil properly nourished for the coming season. Garden tools are conspicuously displayed by local dealers.

W. D. Hurst who annually sells many thousands of plants at his farm on the Pineville road is now preparing his seed beds for plants. He is preparing to conduct his business on a larger scale than ever this year. Many extra beds are being prepared to take care of his growing trade.

Quits Marching But Coxey, at 70, Fights On

MASSILLON, O., Mar. 6.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey isn't lending any more "hobo armies" on to Washington.

But today, at 70, he is even more belligerent in his fight against the "prevailing money system" than he was in 1894, when he besieged the capital.

He is drafting a bill for the abolition of interest charge on money. Interests, he says, hurts business and keeps wages low.

Here in Massillon, Coxey is considered a successful business man. He is president of a sand company that was established in 1881—also its traveling salesman. Last year he covered 43,000 miles in his silver.

DAUGHERTY—BEST POKER PLAYER IN POLITICS!

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—The best poker player in public life. That is the simple explanation behind Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty's ability to keep Washington and the country guessing on his play in the Great Oil Gamble uncovered by the leases.

Senate investigation of navy oil land. No man never maintained a more inscrutable "poker face" in a game for high stakes than Daugherty has won throughout the Teapot Dome session in connection with which it is demanded he quit the cabinet. Whether he's bluffing, or whether he's really got the cards to back up his sticking in the game, only he himself knows.

Perhaps Secretary of the navy Denby never played poker. He threw down his hand and lost his stake early in the game. Many believe his cards were as good as Daugherty's, but that he lacked the nerve and skill to play them.

Just why Daugherty sticks in the game, however, to the admitted embarrassment of President Coolidge and the administration, is another matter.

Daugherty does not feel he owes either Coolidge or the G. O. P. organization heads who have been trying to force him out any such debt as his resignation under fire would imply. To save Coolidge's position in the next campaign he is asked virtually to admit inefficiency, incompetency or worse in himself.

The present administration chiefly because Harry M. Daugherty made it. His efforts alone put Harding over for the Republican nomination in 1920. His advice was a determining factor in the selection of the Harding cabinet, which was continued intact by Coolidge.

Had Daugherty not put Harding across for the nomination, another combination doubtless would have been made for the vice presidency that would have left Coolidge out in the cold.

To tell Daugherty now that he "owes" Coolidge and the administration anything is to give him a laugh. As he sees it, all the debt is on the other side. Without him, they would never have existed!

The remaining question is one of ethics—personal and political. Passing by the general ethical question of a public official clinging to power after conditions have greatly weakened its usefulness in office, two questions remain, from the viewpoint of Attorney General Daugherty. They are:

1. Is it altogether fair and honorable for the administration to seek to discredit, by forcing his resignation, the very man to whose efforts the administration, as such, primarily owes its being?
2. If it is the duty of the father, meekly and without his day in court, to accept blame and dishonor in order to advance the future prospects of the child? To "save the family name?"

Daugherty thinks not. He believes the cards hold success only for the man who plays them cut to the end; to the man who will not be bluff.

Until he is "called," he will raise the ante, will stick in the game. If, when he lays down his hand, he reveals only a pair of deuces, then the world will know that he was just a bluffer.

If he turns up a winning flush he will feel justified in any uneasiness he may have caused even Coolidge and the "administration."

COMMUNITY CHEST PAYMENTS GOOD

Less Than 5 Per Cent Pledges Uncollectible—This Last Month to Pay

Less than five per cent of the Community chest pledges are considered uncollectible, according to William Wallbrecht, secretary of the organization.

Most of the subscriptions were made on the ten-month payment plan and the majority have been paid in full. Payments of some were extended over eleven months and the final payments on these are due in April.

As was expected a small percentage of the subscriptions are uncollectible. Some of the subscribers have left town, others have died, but only a very few of those living here now refuse to pay. Only a few hundred dollars, amounting to perhaps three per cent of the total fund, will not be paid, it is thought.

There are ample funds in the Community Chest to carry on the work until the second drive to fill is made and, it is expected, there will be a small balance left over. Exact date for the drive has not been set though it will take place in May. There will be a meeting of the organization before the next drive is planned and some changes in the management of the fund may be discussed.

Who bought the Brooklyn Bridge today?

ALMOST every day the Brooklyn Bridge is sold to some gullible visitor to New York. Every day someone is swindled. Selling this famous old bridge has become a national joke.

Suppose, however, the City of New York decided really to sell the Brooklyn Bridge—to give the buyer the privilege of placing a toll on all who crossed it. They would advertise it for sale. And the prospective purchaser would know the offer to be genuine.

He would know that the paper would not accept the advertisement if it were intended to defraud. He would know that the advertiser would not dare advertise unless his offer were honest.

The advertisement would give the world confidence in the enterprise.

Just as the advertising of all merchandise gives the world confidence in that merchandise. Only honest products can tell their stories where all may read.

That is why it pays to read advertisements. You can rely on advertised goods. You know that a worthy manufacturer stands back of them. They are a guide to better buying. MIDDLESBORO MAN'S LUCKY FIND
 Will interest readers of the Daily News.

Those having the misfortune to suffer from backache, urinary disorders, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatic pains, or other kidney and bladder disorders, will read with gratification this encouraging statement of a Middlesboro man.

Herbert Atkins, carpenter, Middlesboro, says: "Doan's Pills are my standard kidney remedy and have been for a long time. I had attacks of kidney complaint. My back and kidneys were weak and the kidney secretions passed irregularly. I was lame across the small of my back and the muscles in my hips and back were lame and sore and hurt when I stooped to lift anything. Mornings when I got up it hurt me mostly. I took Doan's pills when I had those attacks and they have always cured me in a few days. I consider Doan's have no equal as a kidney remedy."

McLean's Telegraph Friend Was Once a Washington Bartender

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—John F. Major was a good bartender 20 years ago and now he has come into his reward—to shine in the senate oil committee's galaxy of stars.

He shines with reflected light, perhaps—the reflection of his boss, Edward B. McLean, the millionaire newspaper owner who made a $100,000 loan to the then secretary of the interior, James B. Fall, and then got his share back unchanged, stirring up the most intense enmities.

But it's a pretty, bright, reflected light for all that.

McLean got to know Major across the bar of Shoemaker's saloon, celebrated in Washington in pre-prohibition days.

The young newspaper man liked the genial dispenser of drinks and one day he offered him a job, at a big advance in pay, on the Washington Post. They say Major jumped right over the bar to accept.

From that day to this Major has been McLean's right hand man, not exactly in a newspaper capacity, but as a confidential agent, guide, counselor and friend—sometimes its avenger—as a bodyguard, too, for Major is a big, strong guy and right handy with his fists.

So when the oil investigation on McLean wanted to go to Palm Beach and get wanted to keep an eye—at least by proxy—on the inquiry as well, who but Major was elected to stay on the job in Washington and let the boss know all that it behooved him to know concerning the progress of events.

Major it was who had a hand in all those telegrams to Palm Beach in the funny code, about "Apricot" and "Apple" and "Prattler" and "Duck" and all the rest.

BILL TO QUIZ CABINET WOULD AVOID SCANDALS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—Prevention through publicity of future oil and other government scandals is the purpose of a bill Senator James Couzens of Michigan is about to introduce in Congress. It would require cabinet members to be present in Congress at stated times, to answer questions concerning their department's activities.

Senator Couzens' plan has been suggested in Congress once or twice before, but it has never been pushed, as he expects now to push it.

It has long prevailed in European countries and especially in Parliament in England, where "question day" is an occasion of much importance and interest. The ministers are not compelled to answer, and occasionally they do decline on the ground that public interests would suffer if they were to do so. But generally speaking a minister who has been interpellated feels called on to reply or give an excellent reason for re-

"I have the strongest antipathy," said Senator Couzens, discussing his plan, "toward secret methods of government. They are responsible for nine-tenths of the evils in office."

Result of Secrecy
"In Congress we transact business publicly; in the departments, not always."

"The oil scandal illustrates how this results."

"In 1922 Senator Kendrick heard rumors of the Fall leases. He went to the Interior Department to investigate. He could learn nothing. He finally discovered that the leases had been made, after they had been made, by reading the Wall Street Journal. Naturally he was angry at getting his information in this way, after the attempt he had made."

"Other senators heard the same rumors. This, mind, was before corruption was suspected. One senator had a constituent who, if oil land was to be leased, wanted to offer a bid. They visited both Secretary Fall and the president, but failed to ascertain a thing.

A Watch Dog

"If these men had been in a position to question Fall from the Senate floor, it would have been difficult for him to have refused to answer. He would have been criticized for refusing. Attention would have been attracted."

"Even though 'bookedness' might not always be forestalled, at least responsibility would be easier to fix and time would be saved—two years, in connection with the oil matter."

"The cabinet members, I should say, ought to be in the House and Senate, for interpellation one day a week, unless formally excused by House and Senate committees chosen to decide the question of the necessity for their attendance."

"There might, it's true, be a little disposition at first to overwork the privilege of questioning, or to heckle the secretaries, but that would appear as we grew accustomed to the system."

BROKEN GENERATOR CAUSES BLUE DIAMOND SHUTDOWN

The mine of the Blue Diamond coal company and associated firms at Chevrolet has been shut down during the past week because of a broken generator. The machine had to be sent off for repair and it is expected that it will be returned in time to resume work Monday. The other mines of the company in this section of Kentucky adjacent parts of Tennessee and Virginia are running full time.

Bronchitis Best Treated With Vapors

Direct Treatment with Vaporizing Salve Immediately Reaches Congested Air Passages.

If a cold has been neglected and has gone down into the chest, producing acute bronchitis, thoroughly redden the skin over throat and chest with hot, wet towels to open the pores. Then massage briskly with Vicks for five minutes, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths.

For hours after Vicks is applied the vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc., are inhaled directly into the congested air passages. At the same time Vicks is absorbed thru and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Being externally applied, Vicks is especially good for children and is used by millions of mothers to prevent or relieve cold troubles.

National Canned Foods Week?

"The Consumer's Opportunity"

THE American canned foods industry now leads the world in quality and production. The housewife may today serve an entire canned meal—the completeness of which our grandmothers perhaps never dreamed. Before the days of commercial canning, the variety was limited and the supply far from abundant. So remarkably, however, has the canning industry developed, that it is now possible to secure almost every fruit, vegetable, meat and fish canned. Modern canning factories not only put up fresh, clean food, but the can itself is first sterilized before the food goes in. The can is never opened after sealing until it reaches the kitchen of the housewife miles away, but it opens up as fresh and tender as the day it was taken from the field. The consumer gets fresh foods in the winter months as well as during the summer. He is indebted to the canner for fresh health-giving food fifty-two weeks in the year. By the way of observing National Canned Foods Week, call upon your dealer TODAY and acquaint yourself with the wonderful assortment of canned foods at your service. Buy canned foods this week and convince yourself of their wholesomeness, economy and superior quality.
